

Voyah Free crossover topped the ranking of the most popular plug-in hybrid vehicles (PHEV*) in Russia for the first nine months of 2025, according to experts from the AUTOSTAT agency.

Plug-in hybrid cars can reduce fuel consumption to an absolute minimum, but which models are the best all-rounders and which ones should you avoid?

The Plug-in Hybrid Electric Vehicle (PHEV) segment is emerging as the fastest-growing category in Russia's electric cars market, with projections indicating an impressive growth rate of ...

Comparison of hybrid (HEV) and plug-in hybrid (PHEV) for Russian conditions. Analysis of pros and cons, climate and infrastructure impact.

In Russia, electric cars are still in the early adoption phase but are gaining popularity due to government incentives, rising fuel costs, and increasing environmental awareness.

Russia is seeing a surge in demand for plug-in hybrid electric vehicles, driven by government incentives and growing environmental consciousness among consumers.

The report analyses the plug-in hybrid electric vehicles (phevs) market in Russian Federation. It covers the market size, structure, dynamics, and other characteristics.

This piece reveals the main facts about the rise in new plug-in hybrid vehicle (PHEV) sales in Russia in 2025 and what that uptick could mean for drivers and rental fleets.

As of July 2022, there were around 18,700 electric vehicles in Russia, equivalent to 0.04% of all cars in the country. As of 2021, around 0.13% of new cars sold in Russia were electric. As of July 2024 there were around 40,000 PHEVs in Russia.

Web: <https://thehibiscuscoast.co.za>